The Baden-Württemberg Seminar of The Heidelberg Center for American Studies

Since 2007, the Heidelberg Center for American Studies invites distinguished scholars, public policy experts, journalists, writers, and artists to its Baden-Württemberg Seminar. Participants present their current work, discuss issues of transatlantic interest, or read from their writings at selected institutions throughout the state.

Baden-Württemberg's profound interest in the United States is reflected in many of its cultural, political, and economic institutions, its corporations, museums, and libraries. The Heidelberg Center for American Studies is pleased to present the twenty-ninth semester of the Baden-Württemberg Seminar. We wish to thank our committed network of partners for their continued support.

Agnes Lawrence Pelton

Born to American parents in Stuttgart in 1881, Agnes Pelton moved to the United States as a child. From 1895 to 1900, she studied at the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn and continued her education at the British Academy in Rome, where she studied life drawing and Italian painters. Her work evolved through at least three phases: her early "Imaginative Paintings" that were included in the 1913 Armory Show; works that revolved around the American Southwest like portraits of Native Americans and landscapes; and abstract art that reflected her spiritual beliefs. In 1938, Agnes Pelton was the co-founder and first president of the Transcendental Painting Group. She died in Cathedral City, California, in 1961. Posthumously, her work was exhibited at the Phoenix Art Museum and the Whitney Museum of American Art.

The Heidelberg Center for American Studies (HCA)

The Heidelberg Center for American Studies (HCA) is a central academic institution of the Ruprecht-Karls-Universität Heidelberg. Dedicated to the study of the United States, the HCA serves as an institute for higher education, a center for interdisciplinary research, and a forum for public debate. Building on long-standing ties between Heidelberg and the United States, the HCA fosters multidisciplinary and intercultural exchange across the Atlantic and offers excellent research and education opportunities for international scholars and students. For its public events, the HCA depends on the generosity of corporate benefactors and the support of people like you.
